TUESDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1910.

The re-election of Mr. A. B. Campbell to the presidency of the exhibition association is a well-deserved honor. The post, during the period that he has held it, has been one of heavy responsibility. With the establishment of a new home for the annual fair, it has entered on an altogether new epoch in its history. As to the manner in which those in charge have done their work, there are no two opinions. And the people of Edmonton are under no small debt of gratitude to them. Mr. Campbell was no figurehead but a worker from the drop of the hat. His methods are not those of the self-advertiser, but Edmonton has no citizen who gives of his time more unsparringly to public objects and who is at the same time better qualified in executive capacity for advancing those objects.

In Mr. James McGeorge, who has been elected to the vice presidency, the association will have a successor to Mr. Campbell in training who has shown his capacity in many fields of public service. The report presented by Manager Harrison is very satisfactory and repays careful study.

THE ATTACK ON BISHOP FALLON

While the Fallon-Hanna incident concerns the politics of Ontario exclusively, it is of great interest to the whole country. We have had bitter differences of opinion in regard to school matters between Protestants and Roman Catholics. But it is something out of the ordinary to have a heated dispute between two sections of the latter church. Bishop Fallon makes it perfectly plain that he is not moved by any hostility to the French-speaking people or their language. What prompted his conversation with Mr. Hanna was the fact that the bi-lingual system in vogue in some parts of his diocese was such that the children received no satisfactory education either in French or English. It is quite clear that Bishop Fallon was not on the best of terms with a certain element of French extremists in Quebec, with whom he had come in contact during his connection with Ottawa university, and they have not hesitated to use the statement of his views through their obtained this through their committee by the private secretary of one of the cabinet ministers in an effort to inflame opinion within the church against him. This party has been making a great deal of noise of late under the leadership of Mr. Bourassa and others. They are a source of danger to the cause of Canadian unity in the same way as are those who in English-speaking parts of the Dominion trot out the Protestant horse from time to time for political purposes. They have been heard from frequently before at other stages of Canadian history. That they are making any substantial progress we do not believe but they are a force that has always to be reckoned with by those whose Canadianism is not limited by their own racial and religious sympathies. At a great meeting in Montreal the other day, Sir Wilfrid Laurier referred to these dangerous agitators in a speech which deserves to rank with the greatest of his career.

"This violent section," he declared, "you know it—comprises the Pharisee end of Canadian Catholicism; those who have constituted themselves the defenders of the religion which no one attacks; those who handle the holy water sprinkler as though it were a club; those who have arrogated to themselves the monopoly of orthodoxy; those who excommunicate right and left all those whose stature is a little greater than theirs; those who only seem to have hatred and envy for motive and instinct; those who insulted Cardinal Taschereau when he was alive, and who, now that he is dead, attack his memory; those who made Chaplain's life bitter; those, finally, whom the people with their picturesque language have designated under the name of Castors. That is what remains, a few know-nothing men, in the Province of Quebec of the old Conservative party, the party of Macdonald, of Cartier and of Chaplain. To this group have been joined—I must say it—certain young Liberals whom chance of birth had thrown into the ranks of the Liberal party, but who had nothing Liberal in their nature, and who after a few struggles found their true mentality in the waters of the Castors.

Sir Wilfrid says that the healthy minds of the Conservative party in Quebec have separated themselves from this element and allied themselves with the Liberal party. The remnant, according to the premier, is following Mr. Monk, who is co-operating with Mr. Boveras. This is an imputation that the Conservative party throughout the Dominion must rest under until it definitely repudiates Mr. Monk. His ideas have nothing in common with what made the party what it was under Sir John Macdonald and they cannot afford, if they hope to build up a strong organization in the future, to seek to profit in any degree by the narrow-minded campaign which he and those in association with him are making.

The following from the Vegreville Observer is of interest as bearing on the senator's results in this part of Alberta:

"Homestead Inspector Shandro was in town last Friday and informed the Observer that he had just completed threshing a field of wheat. The field contained 42 1/2 acres and the crop at the machine was 1811 bushels, which is an average of over 42 bushels per acre. The wheat is an excellent sample, some of those who are considered to be qualified judges stating that it should grade at least No. 1 Northern."

With between two and three million acres of Alberta land surveyed during the present year north of Edmonton, all of which will be open to homesteading in the spring, (and glad some reason should see something doing in the settlement line. If railway construction gangs were a prominent feature of the inevitable work, it would be satisfactory from every standpoint.

The sudden death of Senator Dabner of Iowa is tragic in the extreme. He was an outstanding figure in the public life of our neighbors as one of the leaders in the insurgent movement, which has apparently captured the Republican party. Western ideas had in him one of their most stalwart exponents.

What Others Say

GOT THE HOOK!

Billy Perdue had a novel experience with a bear on Tuesday afternoon. He was fishing along Lizard creek, working upstream, and was whipping a pool below a little waterfall that made a brawling noise in the woods. Right over the falls is a small log that damaged up another pool on the upper side. Billy had no luck in the lower pool and cast his flies over the logs to have a stealthy try at the hole higher up. He could not see the lower edge of the pool he was trying in but allowed his flies to flow down until they were below the line of his sight over the logs. Suddenly he felt a tug on his line and the next moment the last section of his rod and most of his line went with a snap to the accompaniment of a 'blat', like the snort of a goat. The angler thought that he had a whale of a squawfish or an alligator, for a fraction of a second. Then he changed his mind when a small black bear shot into the bushes. Simultaneously a twelve-inch trout was jerked out of the water and leaped after the bear. The piece of rod came off the line and hung up on the bank. The fish was torn from the line about three yards from the bank. The line probably going yet. Ditto the bear. Billy figures that the bear was lying on a small gravel bar above the logs, probably asleep. When a trout took the last fly on the cast it jerked one of the other flies across the nose of the ursine sleeper. He promptly woke up and took to the tall spruce, bringing the fish and a piece of the rod part of the way.

Billy thinks that if he had known the strike he was going to get he might have played him to better advantage.—Ferne Free Press.

COMMISSIONERS HELD CONFERENCE.

The city commissioners had a conference on Saturday afternoon with the representatives of Peter Wosna, the Galician who was injured on Friday night at the corner of Alberta avenue and Kinnaird street, through a collision between his wagon and a street car. The commissioners stated that they did not consider the city liable for damages, as the motorman of the car could not be held responsible, as no negligence had been shown. Wosna was taken to the Misericordia hospital after the accident. He sustained internal injuries and had several ribs broken. The wagon was being driven by oxen, one of which was killed. There were also two other people in the rig, but they escaped harm.

PASTOR RESIGNS

Attended Prize Fight and His Parishioners Demand That He Retire

Pittsburg, Oct. 18.—Charged by some of his elders and by other members of his congregation with having attended prize fights in disguise, the Rev. Dr. D. A. Greene, sport-loving pastor of the Manchester Presbyterian Church, today announced that he would resign.

"Two years ago I went to a six-round prize fight, but I did it openly," said the Rev. Mr. Greene. "Some of the boys of my church wanted to hold a boxing tournament, and I went to a fight that was being held at that time to see what it was like. I assure you that I did not go under cover. I sat right out in front. What I saw convinced me that we did not want any of it among our church-going people, and we did not. I like baseball, football, and all out-door games, but when they say I approve of fighting they are wrong. However I am going to resign anyway."

Pastor Greene lost $3000 of his money and most of the church funds in the Enterprise bank crash some years ago. He has since been instrumental in collecting 30 per cent. of the church's funds and of his parishioners' money. He has been considered one of the "live" ministers of Pittsburg. He formerly had charge of the churches at Maumee, Ohio, and Fairview, Ohio.

OTTAWA CLUB'S
GOOD SONGS

Enthusiastic Rooters Sing Melodiously—And Still the Team Does Not Win

The Ottawa Rough Riders have a rooters' club which is noted all over the Big Four circuit for its singing. Here are a few of this year's vintage: (Tune—"Pony Boy.")

Ottawa, Ottawa,
That's the team from Ottawa,
Watch the line working fine,
Watch the scrimmage, too,
Ottawa, Ottawa,
Giddy-up, Giddy-up,
Giddy-up—Whoa,
Oh, Ottawa.

Here are three of the good ones of last year. They are capable of adaptation for this season:

(To the music of "My Wife Has Gone to the Country")
Oh, see them trim the Tigers, Hurrah! Hurrah!

We need the game, we're out for fame,
That's why we came this way,
Oh! now we've got them going, Hurrah! Hurrah!

Look at the score, oh! ain't they sore,
Ottawa, Hurrah.

We've come to tame the animals, Hurrah! Hurrah!

We'll make them eat right off our hands,
That's what you'll see today,
You group of tin-horned growlers,
Go way! Go way!

Your line is sunk, your scrimmage junk,
Your "backs" are "bald and gray!"

(To the music of "Viv! I Addy, I-ay")
Oh, Viv! I Addy, I-ay, I-ay,
Oh, Viv! I Addy, I-ay,
We're from Ottawa, everyone,
So's the team—every son of a gun,
Viv! I addy I-ay I-ay,
We're ready to win—Oh, Hurrah! Hurrah!

Viv! I addy, I-ay.

(To the music of "I'm Fu the Xoo"—Harry Lander.)
Oh, I'm fu the Xoo,
Awie jolly, too,
And I adore the city I was born in,
My name is John McGraw,
And I come from Ottawa,
And I've something in the bottle for the morning.

RUGBY RUMPS
ROUSES RUMOKS

If Calgary Does Not Send Team Here on Saturday There Will be no Inter City Games

There appears to be another Calgary-Edmonton rumble coming up in the offing, and as is usually the case in these inter-city disputes, the Cow Town is to blame.

On this occasion the sport in dispute is Rugby football. As everybody knows there are only two cities in Alberta in which rugby flourishes, namely Edmonton and Calgary, and they play annually for the Belanger cup, which is symbolical of the Provincial championship.

In Calgary there is a half-dozen city league, consisting of two teams only, the champions of which play the Edmonton Eskimos home and home games for the Alberta title.

This year it was suggested that the first game in the Provincial series should be played in Edmonton on October 22nd, and the return in Calgary on Thanksgiving Day. At this point the matter was thought to be decided even though the secretary of the Calgary City league did not consent to answer any correspondence on that matter.

But here is where the Calgary City league steps into the breach. Making arrangements amongst themselves as to their schedule, and openly disregarding the Belanger cup fixtures, they decide to play a series of best two in three games, winners to meet the Eskimos. The first game was played on October 28th, and resulted in a win for the Tigers. Last Saturday she score was 5-5 as the end of full time, and instead of playing extra time until she was broken, the Tigers refused to play off until next Saturday. Of course, this is all very nice for Calgary, but where do the Eskimos, who have been expected to play the first game for the Belanger cup on that date, get off?

The Calgary papers coolly suggest the first game be played in that city on Thanksgiving Day and the return here on the following Saturday.

Now everybody knows that the weather is too uncertain in November to play any game but hockey, and rugby would draw an audience of about twenty seven hardy enthusiasts in coon skin coats and overboots. As Edmonton has to guarantee the visitors $25,000 team does not feel warranted in consenting to play here on November 28th, and run the risk of losing about $200.

When the Calgary Y.M.C.A. played an exhibition game here, early in the season, they were asked to have their City League schedule so arranged as to permit the Belanger cup games being played on the above mentioned dates. The visiting players agreed to this, but now seem to have forgotten their highly given promises.

A meeting of the Edmonton Rugby executive was held last evening and the secretaries of the Tigers and Y.M.C.A. Rugby clubs and tell them that the two clubs must decide the city championship this week and be prepared to play here on Saturday if not at all. The total number of points in two games decides the Provincial championship, and Trustee Belanger rules that the Calgary city championship should be decided by the same system. Following out that ruling, the Tigers would oppose the Eskimos on Saturday, however the two southern teams must decide the matter between themselves and notify the Edmonton team by this evening or there will be no games.

In event of Calgary refusing to play here on the 22nd, home and home games will be arranged between Edmonton and Moose Jaw, who have won the championship of Saskatchewan.

The box score describing the first game in the world's series between Chicago and Philadelphia, shows how completely Bender was master of the situation. McInyre, who relieved Kling, in the fourth pitched gilt-edged ball, but the game was lost when he entered the box.

SHERIDAN'S RECORD BARRED.

New York, Oct. 18.—James E. Sullivan, chairman of the record committee of the Amateur Athletic union, announces that under no circumstances can the wonderful discus performance of 142 feet two inches, made by Martin Sheridan at Celtic park here on Sunday, be accepted as a record. "While I am certain," says Mr. Sullivan's statement, "that every condition, relative to the fairness of judging, measurement and the like was lived up to the rule about records precludes those which are not made in open competition, and the event was limited to Irish-American Athletic club men."

McLOGAN THE LIME.

(Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 18.—The scheduled ten-round bout between C. Robertson of Seattle and Arthur McLogan of Australia, turned out to be nothing more than an imitation of boxing exhibition. In the first round Robertson played with McLogan in the manner of a terrier plays with a rag doll and ended the agony early in the second with a knock-out. McLogan took some minutes to recover.

MACKITES WERE MUCH THE BEST

Bender Proved Too Much for the Hard-Hitting Cubs. Fielding Was Classy

There is much joy in Philadelphia today and a corresponding amount of gloom in Chicago as a result of the first game for the baseball championship of the world.

And again the dope has been upset. At the time of the Johnson-Jeffries fight, the men who knew consumed pills of valuable newspaper space, telling the long-suffering public just how badly the Smoke would be beaten up. And you will probably remember how nearly right they were for the last season. World's Set's dope has met the public's gaze whenever the sporting page of any paper was scanned. The respective merits of the Cubs and Athletics were fully discussed by experts. The dear public learned the medical name for Fyfe's frustration, the precise state of Zimmerman's nervous temperament, how many lumps of sugar Connie Mack takes in his coffee and so on, ad nauseam. Finally, summing up the whole affair, the National League players and series decided the Cubs would romp, while the hard men and ink blots of Dan Johnson's circuit could see nothing but Athletics. The consequence was that up to yesterday at noon the average fan was as much in the dark, after wading through columns of "expert" opinion as our old friend Moore.

But yesterday afternoon what was long expected to happen, did happen, and the two teams of noted gladiators, representing the creme de la creme of the baseball world, met at Uncle Shilo's Philadelphia stadium. And the result was a 4 to 1 victory for the easterners, which will have a great moral effect in determining the championship.

It has been argued the confidence inspired in the team by winning the first game, will just about carry them through the series, victorious, so if there is anything in this old belief, the Athletics have certainly got an ace in the hole.

The Great Indian

Chief Bender justified all the golden opinions thrown at him. He held the hard hitting Cubs safe at all stages, and it was only in the last innings, when the game was won, that he came up. It is no mean feat to hold Chance's men to three hits, even though backed up by almost perfect support. If that "almost" could be eliminated, and Strunk had not batted for McIntyre, the Nationals would probably have been beaten. On the other hand, big Jeff Overall was far from being a puzzle to the Mackites and the bombardment he received necessitated his removal in the fourth, and the substituting of McIntyre, whom Chance did not expect to use in the series. It is evident that Chicago manager considered the game lost in the fourth or he surely would have sent Cole or Brawley to relieve Overall.

There were two men who showed up prominently in different respects. Frank Baker, of the Athletics, third sacker, was the batting star of the game with three safeties to his credit. On the other hand Zimmerman's work was also conspicuous on account of his mediocrity. Making his debut in world's series' baseball, according to the glowing reports sent out from Chicago he should have hit safely every time up. But observe his record for the day. On the first appearance he fouled out, fanned on his second and third trips to the plate. Truly not a wonderful record for Johnny Evers' successor.

The catching of both Thomas and Kling was gilt-edged arid stolen bases were few and far between.

Certainly, "One swallow does not make a summer," and the Athletics by winning the first game have not yet clinched the championship. But their work in the initial struggle has filled their supporters with confidence. Their bats appear stronger than the Cubs', their pitchers look better, and their fielding is every bit as good.

Chance has still Brown, Cole, Ritchie, Pfeiffer and Keulbas to send in, but in Plank, Coombs, Dygert and most probably Bender again, Connie Mack seems to have the best of the argument. Cole is untried in critical games like these, Keulbas is very erratic and Brown seems to be going back, while Plank and Coombs are fighting the zenith of their careers. The second game will take place in Philadelphia today at 2 o'clock and should be witnessed by just as large a crowd as packed the spacious confines of Shibe Park yesterday.

COMMISSIONERS ADVISE GRADING OF SECOND STREET

The commissioners will present a report to the council tonight recommending the preparation of plans for the grading of Second street from the highway to the flats, but if adopted, the work on the grading will not commence until next spring, as the plans will not be started until the completion of other work now occupying the attention of the engineer's department.

The proposed grading will include the cutting down of the present levels on Fourth and McKay by six or seven feet, and a grade down to Hardy of about 16 per cent.

The decision to recommend the carrying out of the proposal was the result of conferences between the property-owners in the vicinity and the city commissioners. The owners located at the summit opposed the idea, but the matter was pressed by those owning property at the bottom, who were ultimately successful in convincing the commissioners that they were in the right. The cost of the work is to be apportioned between property-owners and the city.

THE CONQUEST OF CANAAN

By BOOTH TARKINGTON, Author of "Cherry," "Mansel Dench," etc.

Copyright, 1906, by Harper & Brothers

"At the Tocsin office, here the assistant editor, Judge Pike bought the Tocsin last year, and he thinks a good deal of Eugene. Don't forget I said to come to see me again before you go."

Joe came over to the older man and held out his hand. "Shake hands, father," he said. Mr. London looked at him out of small implacable eyes, the steady hostility of which only his wife or the imperious Martin Pike, his employer, could quell. He shook his head.

"I don't see any use in it," he answered. "It wouldn't mean anything. All my life I've been a hard working man and an able man. Before you got in trouble you never did anything you ought to. You ran with the low set people in town, and I and all your folks were ashamed of you. I don't see that we've got a call to be any different now." He swung round to his desk emphatically on the last word, and Joe turned away and went out quietly.

But it was a bright morning to which he emerged from the outer doors of the factory, and he made his way toward Main street at a lively gait. As he turned the corner opposite the National House he walked into Mr. Eskew's. The old man drew back angrily.

"Lord! a mercy!" cried Joe heartily. "It's Mr. Arp! I almost ran you down!" Then, as Mr. Arp made no response, but stood stock still in the way, staring at him fiercely. "Don't you know me, Mr. Arp?" the young man asked. "It's Joe London."

Eskew abruptly thrust his face close to the other's. "No free seats!" he hissed savagely and swept across to the hotel to set his world afire.

Joe looked after the irate receding figure and watched it disappear into the Main street door of the National House. As the door closed he became aware of a mighty shadow upon the pavement and, turning, beheld a fat young man wearing upon his forehead a scar similar to his own waddling by, with eyes fixed upon him. "How are you, Norbert?" Joe began. "Don't you remember me?" "I—He came to a full stop as the fat one, thrusting out an under lip as his only token of recognition, passed balefully on.

Joe proceeded slowly until he came to the Tocsin building. At the foot of the stairway leading up to the offices he hesitated for a few moments. Then he turned away and walked toward the quietest part of Main street. Most of the people he met took no notice of him, only two or three giving him second glances of half recognition, as though he reminded them of some one they could not place, and it was not until he had come near the Pike mansion that he saw a full recognition in the eyes of one of the many whom he knew and who had known him in his boyhood in the town. A lady, turning a corner, looked up carelessly and then half stopped within a few feet of him as if startled. Joe's cheeks went a sudden crimson, for it was the lady of his old dreams.

As she came rather half stop of surprise, startled, he took his courage in two hands, lifting his hat, stepped to her side.

"Don't you remember me?" he stammered.

"Yes," she answered, a little breathlessly. "Ah, that's kind of you!" he cried and began to walk on with her unhesitatingly.

"I feel like a returned ghost wandering about—invisible and unrecognized. So few people seem to remember me!"

"I think you are wrong. I think you'll find everybody remembers you," she responded unhesitatingly.

"No; I'm afraid not," he begged. "I—"

She interrupted him. They were not far from her gate, and she saw her father standing in the yard directing a painter who was at work on one of the east iron deer. The judge was apparently in good spirits, laughing with the workman over some jest between them, but that did not lessen Mame's nervousness.

"Mr. London," she said in as kindly a tone as she could. "I shall have to ask you not to walk with me. My father would stop with a jerk."

"Why, I—I thought I'd go in and shake hands with him—and tell him I—"

Astonishment that paroxysm of terror and of awe spread itself instantly upon her face.

"Good gracious!" she cried. "No!"

"Very well," said Joe humbly. "Good-bye!"

Joe got him meditatively back to Main street and to the Tocsin building. This time he did not hesitate, but mounted the stairs and knocked upon the door of the assistant editor.

"Oh," said Eugene. "You've turned up, have you?"

"I've come back to stay, Gene," said Joe. "Bantley dropped his book. 'Excuse me,' he said. 'I suppose you'll try to find something to do. I don't think you could get a place here. Judge Pike owns the Tocsin, and I greatly fear he has a prejudice against you.'"
